

At Sea

[1945]

Dear Monseigneur,

Since your last letter there have been many changes. Dr. Somer and his group were getting ready to go somewhere when I left but we left in a hurry. I never realized there was so much water in the world - you look out day after day and all you see is the mass of water. The sea has been terribly quiet and at times barometric. The heat is just unbearable. One perspires so much he exhausted the salt in his system thus making it necessary to take salt tablets three times a day. ~~I have had an awful time trying to keep them down. Don't always succeed.~~ Tonight we are sitting in our shorts, everyone wears shorts except at Mess a ~~show~~ show is to be given by the E.M.
