

I also take care of the Guerilla soldiers attached to our unit. Most of them are devout Catholics. Some people may think that these soldiers are ruff and uncultured men but this is far from the truth.

I have had a hard time keeping up my supply of rosaries and prayer books to satisfy the demand. Thanks to the Witness, today I received a large box containing hundreds of old rosaries and prayer books donated by the good people of the Diocese. I thank the good people who so graciously donated their old rosaries and I assure them my boys both the Americans and the Philipinos will use them to good advantage. It is also edifying to see these men at the front lines with the rosary hanging about their necks. It is easy to identify a Catholic wounded man or one killed in action.

News looks good on both fronts. The Japs are having trouble setting up a cabinet. Seems that every time they get one set up our Navy and airforce knocks it down.

Best wishes and God's blessings,

Yours fraternally in Christ,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to be 'J. White', written in a cursive style.