

shepherd for his military flock. A few Sisters, French & Belgian, come to assist. A French brother of Mary, rector of St. Joseph's College, was there. The Sisters conduct a general hospital. In the vicinity, too, is a Sacred Heart Church; a French and Japanese priest there. The latter was converted at about the age of 20, I believe. When one sees the missionary church operating in the land of St. Francis Xavier, he hopes and prays his "Thy kingdom come" that many of our parishes will send boys and girls to the missions and provide them with all-out spiritual and financial support.

About thirty priests were gathered Tuesday afternoon for a talk by Archbishop Spellman. Msgr. Morella (2), archbishop and apostolic delegate to Japan, was there, as was the rector of the Catholic University of Tokyo. Archbishop Spellman called on President Truman before beginning his trip; he had the honor of having the President read to him the final
